Re Define Your Limits

A close-up, high-speed photograph of a pencil tip breaking through a surface. The pencil is orange and white, and the tip is white wood. The pencil is positioned diagonally from the top right towards the bottom center. The tip is just breaking through a white surface, and a large, rectangular piece of wood is flying off to the left. Numerous smaller wood shavings are scattered in the air around the pencil tip, creating a sense of motion and impact. The background is dark, making the white pencil and the flying wood shavings stand out. The overall composition is dynamic and visually striking.
